Christopher Fielder

Field CTO at Arctic Wolf

Christopher Fielder has worked within the cybersecurity world for over 24 years and holds 18 industry certifications along with a Master's Degree in Information Security. His experience ranges from military, government, and corporate environments in security roles that covered offensive, defensive, and analytical positions. Christopher has also helped train some of the next generation of security professionals as a University instructor and former employee of the SANS Institute. Today he has taken a step back from the front lines of security operations and enjoys his role as the Field CTO and Editor-in-Chief for Arctic Wolf. A position that allows him to focus on researching security concerns and highlighting the power and expertise of the Arctic Wolf team.
